

सुभाषित

Introduction:

A subhaashita is an unwarranted advice given in verses. Many of them have deep meaning, but it is not a necessity. The majority of subhashitas, and the name of their writer (subhashitakar) is not available (usually not coded as in bhajans or gazals.). The “chhanda” i.e. the poetic format of the subhhashitas can be made part of the stats associated. e.g. गुरुर्ब्रह्मा गुरुर्विश्वः गुरुर्देवो महेश्वरः is in what is called “Anushtubh” chhanda - the entire subhhashita is composed of four segments each of which have eight letters in it. (There are some more restrictions - e.g. the 5th letter has to be a “rhasva” or short letter) Another example is “shaarduula-vikriiDita” , e.g. :

खिन्नं चापि सुभाषितेन रमते स्वीयं मनः सर्वदा
श्रुत्वान्यस्य सुभाषितं खलु मनः श्रोतुं पुनर्वाञ्छति ।
अज्ञानं ज्ञानवतोऽप्यनेनहि वशिकर्तुं समर्थो भवेत्
कर्तव्यो हि सुभाषितस्य मनुजैः आवश्यकः संग्रहः ॥

Here the rhythm pattern is obviously different.

Besides the chhanda, perhaps if the subhhashita is part of a large poetic composition - e.g. Kalidasa’s ”raghuva.nsha” or Bhavabhuti’s “niitishhaTaka” then that could be mentioned.

Another piece of information that can be included is the mood of the subhashita - e.g. whether it is didactic, satiristic, simply humorous, in the form of prayer to God, or a riddle (samasyaapuurti) . Perhaps this is an inadequate classification given the nine kaavya rasas, but most of the subhhashitas commonly known, fall into one of these categories.

Knowledge is the highest beauty in man and it is the secret wealth. Success comes to those who have knowledge and they really enjoy and make merry.

supreme guide. Knowledge, not wealth, is really respected and revered by the rulers. One without knowledge is like an animal.
